Centre committed to fast-track development in NE: Rajnath

ZODIN SANGA

AIZAWL, June 12: The Centre is committed to fast-tracking the development initiatives in the northeastern region, especially in border areas, Home Minister Rajnath Singh said today addressing a meeting of the chief ministers of the four northeastern states that share border with Myanmar.

Singh said the northeastern region is immensely rich in human and natural resources and its ethnic and linguistic diversities enrich India's cultural heritage. "Our government is committed to fast-tracking of development in the northeastern region. Work on road and rail network extension is going on. We want to extend these networks to border areas," he said in his opening remarks in the meeting that discussed the Indo-Myanmar border issues.

The meet was attended by Minister of State for Home Affairs Kiren Rijiju, besides Pema Khandu, Nitin Singh and Lal Thanhawla, chief ministers of Arunachal Pradesh, Manipur and Mizoram respectively, and Nagaland Home Minister Yandhyar Paton.

GUWAHATI, June 12: Skeletons continued to tumble out of the cupboard in the extra neutral alcohol (ENA) excise duty evasion scam as it emerged that the imported ENA was meant for pharmaceutical and cosmetics purposes.

The firms were issued altogether 19 permits since 2009 even as the State Excise department had initiated a move way back in 2014 to cancel the licence of one of the firm's following various irregularities.

But Haryana Police has provided copies of around 59 permits used by the firms to import ENA between April, 2015 and May, 2016. Excise officials here suspect that prior to the period also, many more such consignments must have been imported with similar forged permits which bore "fake" signatures and stamps of the department.

Also, most of the permits issued by the Excise department here were meant for importing ENA from Uttar Pradesh.

Only a couple of them pertained to Punjab.

GST registration picking up in State

R DUTTA CHOWDHURY

GUWAHATI, June 12: The registration of dealers under the Goods and Services Tax (GST) is picking up in the State and around 50 per cent of the potential dealers have already registered themselves under the GST, which is slightly above the national average of around 44 per cent. The State Government is planning to complete the registration process by June 15 so that the GST regime can be rolled out effectively from July 1 along with the rest of the country.

Highly placed official sources told The Assam Tribune that so far more than 30,000 dealers have registered themselves under the GST and according to an estimate, the total number of dealers, who would come under the new tax system, would be around 50,000. Sources said that at present, there are around 2,500 lakh registered dealers in the State. But some did multiple registration, while some persons did not carry out any business after registering themselves.

Moreover, under the GST regime, only the dealers, who have annual turnover of more than ten lakh rupees would have to register themselves and that way the number would come down. As per our assessment, around 50,000 dealers of the State would come under the GST regime," sources added.

Initially, the registration process was slow as the people were not fully aware of the Aadhaar-based registration. Moreover, the people of Assam do not have Aadhaar cards. But after the Centre waived the Aadhaar card condition for registration of dealers in the State, the registration process picked up and the government is hoping to complete the process by June 15 for effective implementation of the GST from July 1.

Sources admitted that at the initial level, there would be some challenges in

 The megalithic site was

Other antiquities found at rectified alcohol. A permit is issued for around 20,000 to 25,000 bulk litres of ENA." Experts told The Assam Tribune.

Meanwhile, the State Excise Department has written to the Excise Commissioner of Punjab seeking the total quantity and other details of the rectified alcohol issued by a particular supplier in Patiala to the two firms in Assam since 2008.

The scam had come to light after an unidentified person lodged a forgery case with Haryana Police against the Patiala-based supplier. A team from Haryana Police had last week visited the State in connection with the probe and had furnished copies of the permits, recovered from the premises of the supplier, to the State Excise Department for verification. The permits were found to be forged.

Today, a team from Hatiagon Police also went to the Excise Department and obtained copies of various documents. A Deputy Commissioner of Excise had filed a signature forgery case at Hatiagon Police Station. The forged permits purportedly bore the signature of the Deputy Commissioner.

implementing the GST. "But we are confident that we will be able to overcome the challenges within a short time," sources asserted. "One of the challenges is that a number of dealers in Assam have registration in West Bengal. We will have to settle this issue through discussions with the Central and West Bengal governments," sources added.

To educate dealers, dealers and chartered accountants about the implementation of the GST, a series of training programmes have been organised.

Asked whether the revenue collection of the State would increase after the implementation of the GST, sources admitted that the tax collection may come down in the initial few months. "There may be initial hiccups while introducing a new system and in the first few months, the revenue collection may go down a little. But the State would benefit in the long run," sources added.

During the implementation of the Value Added Tax (VAT) system also, the revenue collection came down in the first year, but it picked up after a year or so.

A CORRESPONDENT

JORABAT, June 12: A large number of people have been affected by the defunct water supply project of the Public Health Engineering (PHE) department in Jorabat.

The situation has also exposed the inhabitants to grave health hazards, as they have been compelled to procure water from unsafe sources.

The water supply scheme was launched three years back and has not been functional for the past one year. The scheme once helped the people of the area in getting safe drinking water, but once it became non-functional, the people have been hit hard.

A local resident said that the water supply scheme was functioning erratically for some time, but came to a complete standstill a year back. Due to lack of maintenance the filters and tanks have been filled with straw, leaves, dust, etc.

Tara Sharma, president of the Jorabat Water Supply Scheme said that the scheme was set up under the leadership of Gauri Shankar Choudhary and very cheap materials (pipes, motors) were used in developing the water supply project. The machinery and equipment got damaged soon after the scheme was launched.

"The PHE department did not pay attention to the quality of the equipment installed while developing the project. We have also forwarded our grievances in writing to the local MLA Atul Bora and the PHE department regarding the matter," Sharma said.

He added that even if the equipment is repaired, it hardly lasts a few days and gets damaged again due to its cheap quality and in fact, there is little point now in repairing it.

"We are now waiting for the Central Water Supply Scheme of Dimoria and have written to the government to ensure streamlined water supply to the people of Jorabat area," he said.

Gauri Shankar Choudhary, the then president of the scheme committee said that he had carried out repair works in his tenure.

Meanwhile, the inhabitants of Jorabat are facing a harrowing time as they have been compelled to use water from unsafe sources, exposing themselves in the process to serious health hazards.

Significantly, the BJP before it formed its government in the State, had made supply of potable water to Jorabat inhabitants a poll plank.

"It will be interesting to see what the BJP government does in this regard, as providing safe drinking water was in its poll agenda, something reiterated by the BJP workers at a meeting held in Jorabat before the elections. They had given their word and must not backtrack on the vital issue," a local resident said.

Meanwhile, the Dimoria unit of the All Assam Students' Union (AASU) today staged a demonstration protesting the PHE department's failure in providing drinking water to the people. The student body in association with all its branches and sub-branches of the area took out a mass rally with thousands of students and local people around 10:30 am from Sonapur Mini Stadium to Sonapur Circle Office and submitted a memorandum to the Deputy Commissioner, Kamrup (Metro) through the SDC, Sonapur.

Jatin Deka, president of Dimoria AASU, said that the PHE department must solve the issue within seven days and make the scheme functional so that people get safe drinking water. "Or else we will take our protest to a higher level."

Dibyoyoti Mehta, adviser to Dimoria AASU, said that not only water, but most of the water supply projects run by the PHE department are not functioning. He said the AASU would continue with its mass protest against the department, demanding proper water supply in greater Jorabat area.

Call for eradication of child labour

STAFF REPORTER

GUWAHATI, June 12: World Day against Child Labour was organised by the Kamrup Metro district administration in association with the National Child Labour Project (NCLP) and with the help of Child Line and Sarva Shiksha Abhiyan (SSA) today at the District Library here.

Deputy Commissioner and Chairman of NCLP Kamrup Dr M Angamuthu asked all government departments and NGOs to work towards fully eradicating child labour from the State.

The Deputy Commissioner requested the people in general to pass information with regard to use of child labour by anybody.

MLA of East Guwahati constituency Siddhartha Bhattacharya, the chief guest of the event described the issue of child labour as a sensitive one for society and expressed satisfaction with the steps taken by the district administration for eradication of child labour.

DCP of Central Police District, Guwahati Ranjan Bhuyan, in his speech, said that due to economic backwardness and insurGENCY the issue has been growing and called upon everybody to come forward to eradicate the menace.

During the event some meritorious students from NCLP's Students Special Training School, Children Home and Dr Bhupen Hazarika Residential School were felicitated.

Earlier in the morning a walkathon was organised by the district administration from Latasil to District Library.

BBCI takeover by DAE to augment manpower, infrastructure

STAFF REPORTER

GUWAHATI, June 12: With the Union Cabinet approving taking over of the Dr B Borooah Cancer Institute (BBCI), Guwahati, by the Department of Atomic Energy (DAE) and bringing it under the administrative control of the Tata Memorial Centre, a DAE-aided institution, it is expected that the top cancer care facility in the North East will see a lot of upgrading in terms of augmentation of manpower and infrastructure.

The Cabinet decision comes in the wake of the increasing incidence of cancer, limited cancer treatment facilities and the need for hospital support to carry out further research in the north-eastern region.

The approximate non-recurring expenditure for strengthening of the institute is estimated at Rs 150 crore and the annual recurring expenditure is estimated at Rs. 45-50 crore.

"The decision has come as a shot in the arm for BBCI, it will result in immediate augmentation of additional manpower of 166 posts in medical, paramedical and support positions," Dr AC Kalati, Director BBCI, told The Assam Tribune.

BBCI was established in 1974 with the aim and objective of investigation, diagnosis and treatment of cancer in the north-eastern region by a voluntary organisation. The Government of Assam took over the

Atrocities on minorities in Bangladesh decried

It needs mention here that the majority settlers in the Chittagong Hill Tracts of Bangladesh have been physically attacking the minority Chakmas and other minuscule ethnic groups and burning down their abodes and commercial establishments, following the death of a biker recently.

Personnel of the Bangladesh Army and Bangladesh Police have been allegedly siding with the perpetrators of such violence.

Being ready

Though the new generations amongst the various communities in the North-east may not be familiar with that nail-biting event, the 1962 India-China war remains vivid in the collective imaginations of older generations. China inflicted a crushing defeat on the Indian forces, overran our defensive positions in Arunachal and reached the foothills of Assam. Everyone believed that the North-east would be annexed by the victorious Chinese and the then Indian Prime Minister, Jawaharlal Nehru, had even made a farewell speech to the people of this region. Incredibly enough, without confronting any resistance from the Indian army, the Chinese suddenly retreated to their original position on the India-China border, much to everyone's relief. A great deal of postmortem of the debacle ensued, with the verdict being that the Indian jawans were ill-equipped, there had been no attempt to acclimate reinforcement troops to the raffied heights of the Himalayas and infrastructure in the shape of passable roads and bridges were non-existent. It is heartening to note that since the debacle India has learned her lesson well and, as reported, currently our troops on the India-China border in Arunachal are combat-ready and prepared to meet any onslaught from the Chinese. Significantly, two battalions of Arunachal Scouts, comprising of locally recruited jawans who are familiar with the terrain, have been raised to assist the army in patrolling our borders thereby filling a lacuna in the 1962 war.

Not only has the strength of the Indian army been raised, there has been considerable increase in the fire-power of the artillery and air force, the latter being aided by the opening up of advanced landing grounds. Moreover, communication infrastructure, in particular bridges on the river Brahmaputra and its tributaries, has been constructed, the latest being the Dholka-Sadiya bridge. However, as acknowledged by experts involved in handling India's defence, much more needs to be done, particularly in the sphere of border road building. The Chinese, with their roads and railheads coming very close to the positions of their troops on the border, are way ahead of us in such aspects. For instance, though the construction of the Koliya-Bhomora bridge has facilitated access to troops on the frontiers at places like Bomdila and Tawang, the road is prone to blockage during the monsoons and in winter, a bottleneck which needs to be removed. Moreover, as the experts point out, there is exigent requirement for passable roads along the entire Arunachal border, never mind Chinese objections to construction of infrastructure in 'disputed' territory! No doubt, at the moment there is little chance of large-scale hostilities between India and China, with both nations being preoccupied with economic aspects and conceding the necessity to bury bones of contention. Yet it must be recalled that the 1962 conflict occurred during a 'Hindi Chini Bhai Bhai' phase, so India needs to be well prepared.

Remarkable feat

Ace mountaineer from Arunachal Pradesh Anshu Jamison rewrote record books by doing a 'double ascent' (scaling twice) on Mount Everest in five days, becoming in the process the first woman in the world to achieve the remarkable feat. This, however, was not the first 'double ascent' of the world's summit for Anshu, a 32-year-old mother of two. On her first attempt in 2011, she had conquered the 29,029-ft peak twice in 10 days between May 12 and 21. Her third successful attempt was on May 18 two years later. Although generally a well-known name as a top mountaineer, Anshu's spectacular feats of strength, endurance, and an indomitable will have not really been highlighted in her own region, the North-east, in the manner it deserved. And her accomplishment is all the more laudable given the backdrop of a not-so-inspiring mountaineering history in the region. Her repeated conquests of Mount Everest are bound to be a shot in the arm for the region's fledgling mountaineering scenario and inspire budding mountaineers to emulate her feat. Like any other sporting discipline, mountaineering calls for top physical conditioning as well as mental strength. Anshu has shown what determination, commitment and perseverance can achieve, and she can be the role model for our youngsters engaged in different sporting pursuits, especially adventure sports. The dedicated mountaineer's success story can also be related to women empowerment, as – apart from her household responsibilities as a wife and a mother – she overcame every impediment in her way to glory atop the world's summit on so many occasions.

Anshu's feat goes to show that we have no dearth of sporting talents in the North-east, and what is needed is encouragement and sponsorship from governments and the corporate sector. It may be recalled that Tarun Salkia, the first Everest conqueror from Assam in 2013, had to wait for several years to get a chance to be part of an Everest expedition team. This can be frustrating for any talented, budding sportsperson and reflects poorly on the facilities for mountaineering in the region. The Government needs to take serious note of the constraints restricting the scope for mountaineering in the region. Dominated by mountainous terrains, the North-east as a whole offers immense scope for promoting mountaineering as an ideal adventure sports. As the unprecedented success saga by Anshu has the potential to create a renewed interest in the sport in the region, the government authorities should seize the initiative and do their part in identifying and honing the talents. Long-term interventions from the authorities can go a long way in promoting mountaineering in a big way in the North-east.

Re-greening Assam

■ Swapnani Barua

The eagerness, enthusiasm and drive by government and public alike to plant trees to mark the World Environment Day may have been forgotten in the week gone by, but the need for planting trees has well sunk in the minds of the educated elite. They may lack the perseverance and dedication of Jadab Payeng to pursue it to the end, but all now feel the pinch of the vagueness of the weather, the unreliability and the rising global temperatures. All miss the beauty and cool of the monsoon rains and look upon it with fear that it may not rain cats and dogs and bring in artificial flooding with it, taking a toll of both life and property. Unduly dry months bring with it water shortages in areas which see the fury of artificial floods, a case in point being the Anil Nagar and Nabin Nagar areas of Guwahati, which suffer from water shortage in winter and flash floods in summer. So the buzz words today are – man will survive only if trees survive.

The association of trees with man has been a divine connection not only in India but worldwide. Even in tribal societies, the sanctity of the sacred groves has something to do not only with the living, but also with the dead. Ayurveda, or that for matter all of AYUSH, has its links with nature, trees, berries, seeds and leaves. Cures of all ailments in the human body and mind are found in nature itself. This apart, even the comforts of living have their sources in nature. The log for the houses, the thatch for the roof, fish in the pond, grass for the grazing animals, the wood for the implements of agriculture, anything you name it, lie in the forests. Though we attribute forest-serve bridge-grade timber. Saw mills had also come up in Assam and there being no restrictions on their source of timber, jungles were cleared in full happiness. Namer was the first reserve forest of Assam, notified in September 29, 1859, a battle begun by the SDO (Civil) of Golaghat, named Masters, who later became the first forest official of Assam. Thus the struggle of conservationists and timber smugglers is as old as the history of forests in also saw awareness growth in the public domain. In the meantime, forests in Assam were depleted to half of what it was fuelled by encroachments, an active timber mafia insurgency, and inactive protection supervision by the bosses at field level. So much so was the consolidation level that the Department took pride in the State having a 35% forest cover against the required minimum of 33%. A read of the 2004 Forest Policy document is a good proof of sweet surrender. The fight began by PD Stracy Prakash Barua, Sashi Rakhowa, the IAS duo, the Dases or a DP Neog was given up in the first sign of the recess bell in the fighting ring. The dust and grime of the field were left to the lower functionaries, who without leaders did what they felt was safest for them. The department has only grown in length and girth, itself losing count of the number of Principal Chief Conservators, Chief Conservators, et al.

The Forest and Environment Department still has the lead role to restore the green cover in Assam, but from the mindset point of view, it is perhaps the most ill-equipped to do so. It remains a regimented permanent and hereditary rights to the use of the forest for grazing, firewood, timber, cane and other forest produce, which was prevented by forest officials. The needs of revenue generation were of primary concern and not the role of forests and green cover on environment protection. It was only in the 1970s that concepts of global warming and environment degradation came to the minds of policy planners, which have a 50% forest cover. Andhraites who form 50% of the State's forest bureaucracy have not been able to take up such a challenge for any town of the State. In fact the state forest policy has not fixed up a targeted green cover for the State. They are playing safe at conserving the existing figure, as a true conservative than a dreaming doer. So any attempt at greening the State will remain at a nebulous date. Without a target date to raise the green cover to a certain percentage above 33%, it may take any number of years. Re-greening will automatically come to the State in another hundred years when the population growth will first plateau and then decline, as is happening in Europe today. So it is imperative that the Assam Government decides to fix a green cover target for the State in the coming 10 years, so that the Department may target all its efforts to achieve it or miss it by a whisker.

That our reserve forests have been encroached is a known fact. Evicting non-ethnic encroachers may be an easy task, but ethnic ones will definitely be a problem. Unless alternative means of livelihood are given, the pressure of re-encroachment of the forests, wetlands and wastelands will always remain. Nurturing the forests has to be a people's movement, done by the people will help from experts and timely inputs. Foresters have now to reshape themselves to extension workers, selling the idea of forestry to the people, involving them, creating leaders like Jadab Payeng. Success of a forester will not lie in cracking the IFS or AFS exams, but in creating the environment where forests, man, animal, trees, shrubs, birds and bees will all thrive. A big challenge, no doubt!

Developing renewable energy need of the hour

■ Plabita Baruah

As the 21st century's tech-equipped, busy individuals, we seldom spare a second thought about the resources helping us in using the luxuries of everyday life starting from the ACs, fans, lights, TV, heaters, refrigerators, computers, cell phones to almost everything that needs energy to run. That being said, it is almost impossible to imagine a world without electricity. If we probe deeper into the production of electricity, we see that a bulk of this electricity is produced from non-renewable resources, i.e., resources which once consumed cannot be replaced. The raw materials used are generally fossil fuels; thermal stations using coal being the producer of approximately 41% of the world's electricity. Other fossil fuels like oil and natural gas too contribute a major percentage to world's energy resources forming a bulk of the resources used in world's transportation system. Fossil fuels were formed due to reactions and processes on the dead remains of plants and animals for millions and millions of years. They are called 'non-renewable' because we are consuming them faster than they are created. Coal, for instance, is created over a geological time period and we are likely to consume most of it in less than 1,000 years. And the way we are totally dependent on these resources for almost every activity, without laying much stress on alternatives, imagine the situation when these resources become extinct one day. Not only that, the process required to convert them into usable forms creates high levels of toxic and poisonous gases which is one major cause of nature's degradation.

The extent of the damage of the coal/gas paradigm isn't just pollution, or the fact that they running out, or that we have been using them wastefully, or that its price goes up and down and because it's one of the biggest markets in the world, it imposes a lack of visibility on our economies. It also kills miners and susceptible people who have respiratory sensitivities or who get cancer from exposure to carcinogenic chemicals. Externalities are sometimes hard to see, such as pollution and land degradation, and sometimes there are less obvious prices that we pay such as asthma and cancer, or the impacts of sea level rise. The world population is expected to double by 2050 and the result will be that energy consumption will triple by the middle of the 21st century. One can imagine the level of environmental pollution resulting from several decades of demographic growth.

But we can help to change the course of events. First, the consumption of energy should be saved. All of us are aware of how we should stop energy wastage in every little activity we do. Secondly, more flexible fuels (renewable energy) which are mentioned above should be used. Solar-thermal technologies that use mirrors or lenses to concentrate the sun's rays on the heat exchanger are being incorporated in power plant projects in many countries in the world. Electricity is also produced by photovoltaic devices. They create no pollution and can be operated almost anywhere and require little maintenance. Wind power is a renewable source of energy and reduces our alliance on foreign countries for supply of oil and gas. It does not cause any air pollution has created jobs in last few decades. Advancement in technologies has brought down the cost of setting up wind power plants. Biomass is another major alternative energy source. Burning of wood and straw gives biomass energy which is already used largely for cooking and heating in developing countries. Geothermal energy is drawn or harnessed from beneath the earth which is completely clean and renewable. The earth contains a molten rock called magma where heat is continuously produced. This heat is used for producing steam from boiling water which in turn activates generators.

But despite the promise of alternative energy sources, collectively they provide only about 7% of the world's energy needs. The main reason for this is the relatively higher cost of most forms of alternative energy compared to fossil fuel sources of energy. Also the massive old energy lobbies have successfully used their colossal influence and power to inhibit the growth of renewable sources of energy. There are other disadvantages of renewable energy like low efficiency, failure to meet large demands and problems related to initial set-ups. But the world is so obsessed with using these easily available energy resources that the time and investment in the betterment of renewable energy harnessing systems is a way meagre compared to the benefits of switching over to them.

Letters to the EDITOR

Sir,

Recently the NCERT included a lesson named 'Tribes, nomads and settled communities' in the book Our Past II for Class VII, where it is written that... In 1662 the Mughals under Mir Jumla attacked the Ahom kingdom. Despite their brave defence, the Ahoms were defeated. But direct Mughal control over the region could not last long. Now history says that it was the Ahoms which could not be defeated by the mighty Mughals even after 17 attacks at different times. In spite of this factual truth, how could the NCERT project such a wrong image of not only the Ahoms but also the entire Assamese nation to the scores of students of India? In each and every history book, it is clearly written that 'repeated attempts of Mughal imperialism were thwarted by the Ahoms'. Even Mir Jumla, the greatest general of Asia of this period, could not achieve anything and Raja Ram Singh, the most trusted and efficient general of Emperor research performance. Further, while allotting 70% weightage towards academic performances, the string marking patterns of the boards/universities that existed almost 12-15 years ago have been completely overlooked. This has almost diminished the hopes of the aspirants for academic jobs in colleges who obtained their degrees at that time. Also, the allotment of nominal seven marks towards PhD with NET/SLET qualifications via DHE circular further belittles the expectations of the PhD degree holders. The distinct differences between UGC and DHE (Assam) regulations corresponding to these issues have not been rectified yet. Yours etc., DR ANJAN BARMAN, Tezpur.

Good decision

Sir – This is an effort to bring immediate attention of the Education Minister of Assam regarding the recruitment process of assistant professor (AP) positions in Government/ provincialized degree colleges of Assam. At present, the recruitment of APs in such colleges is being made following DHE (Assam) circulars. We wish to mention a disappointing issue corresponding to the circular. The DHE circular allows maximum weightage up to 70% towards the academic performances of a candidate. This is in contrast to the UGC regulation for direct recruitment of APs in universities/ departments/colleges that assigns weightage up to 50% towards academic record along with English-medium educated candidates as teachers of the Adi Basha Vidyayashas. Most of the candidates educated in Assamese medium schools fail to pronounce the English words correctly (except a few). How will they teach correctly in English-medium schools? To teach in English-medium schools, English-medium candidates will be a better choice. Yours etc., PANKAJ KUMAR SARMA, New Delhi.

Train for Buddhist pilgrims

Sir – The Northeast Frontier Railway and the Indian Railway Catering and Tourism Corporation have jointly launched the 'Astha Circuit Tourist train' for people of the North-east. This train has been launched to take tourists, mainly Hindu pilgrims, to popular religious destinations of different parts of India. In this context, I would like to add that a large number of Buddhist people live in Assam, especially in several upper Assam districts and Arunachal Pradesh. The Buddhist pilgrims from north-eastern India travel to the pilgrimage sites like Bodhgaya, Rajgir, Nalanda, Sarnath, Kushinagar, Lumbini, etc., all over the year. They have to avail the only express train running between Gaya and Kamakhya once a week. But as this train is not at all sufficient for the Buddhist pilgrims to travel to these destinations, will the railway authorities consider introducing a train like the Astha Circuit for a large number of Buddhist pilgrims of the North-east? Yours etc., ALOK SHYAM GOHAIN, Sonari.

Army chief's remark

Sir – It is appalling to go through the Indian Army chief's comments that the population needs to fear the army, and yet this officer said that the Indian Army is a friendly force. Now, do the people of India, including the Prime Minister and parliamentarians, need to fear the Indian Army? And who does the Indian Army fear? The people do not fear the Indian Army. They love the Indian Army. Yours etc., NAYAN MIPUN, Patarkuchi, Guwahati.

Arunachal encroaches 40 bighas in Behali RF

CORRESPONDENT

BISWANATH CHARIALI, June 12: The border row between Assam and its neighbouring State Arunachal Pradesh has reached a new high following the latter's fresh alleged encroachment in the reserve forests of Assam situated along the border which are full of flora and fauna.

The Arunachali Agrasen Virodi Samiti, Borgong has alleged that Arunachal Pradesh has again encroached a huge portion amounting to around 40 bighas of land in the Naharjan sector of the Behali Reserve Forest in Biswanath district which they claim to be their own land.

It may be mentioned here that as many as 15 local people were killed by miscreants at Chaudhkhola along the Assam-Arunachal border on January 29, 2014, but when the Assam Government tried to set up security outposts in the forest to provide security to the people and the forest, it was challenged.

However, the Department of Home, Government of Assam managed to set up three temporary border outposts at Dikai, Radhasu and Naharjan.

The Government has not been able to give out a permanent shape as the Government of Arunachal Pradesh approached the Supreme Court alleging that the outposts had been set in their own land. As a result, the condition of the outposts is deteriorating day by day leading to much inconvenience to the jangs posted there, particularly during the rainy season. The communication and road condition is also very pathetic. At present, 40 jawans of the 24 Indira Reserve Battalions are posted at Radhusu forest camp.

Meanwhile, a team of the senior officers of the Department of Forest, Government of Assam including Conservator of Forest, Northern Assam Forest Division, P Shiva Kumar, Divisional Forest Officer (DFO) of Biswanath, Rajen Choudhury and others, visited the Behali Reserve Forest recently and took stock of the situation. Later, P Shiva Kumar informed mediapersons that the Arunachali encroachers will be evicted within a period of one week.

Plea to Centre for speedy development of Udalguri

CORRESPONDENT

KALAIGAON, June 12: The Udalguri District Journalists' Union (UDJU) has submitted a memorandum to the Government of India for immediate action regarding a few long-pending public interest related issues.

Sadhan Hojai, Deputy Commissioner, Udalguri; Narayan Deka, MLA, Kartik Biju and Udalgori unit of BJP and other civil and police officials.

Shiv Pratap Shukla was the chief guest at Udalguri during 'Sabha Saitha, Saka Vilash Sammelan,' representing the Government of India. The memorandum mentioned immediate need for completion of the NH-15 (extension from Roura to Udalguri).

The road was being constructed by Simplex India Ltd under NHA, which was part of the package containing six such road projects in the North East. Only four such schemes under the package had been completed and remaining two, including NH-15 (extension), have not been sanctioned, thereby stopping construction activities.

The memorandum requested the Government to sanction the road under a new package from Roura to Udalguri. The union also requested the Government to declare Bhatua, kunda, Udalguri and Samrang as trade centres for international promotion of commerce and tourism between India and Bhutan.

Thirdly, the memorandum said that the people of BTC are being deprived of their fundamental right to exercise their franchise to elect local panchayat members, as panchayat-raj system has not been implemented in the BTC. But VCDC representatives are being selected by ruling parties. In absence of the panchayat system funds never reach village people and gets misappropriated by brokers or diverted to other departments. The union urged the Government to introduce panchayat system in the BTC.

Lastly, as far as Deendayal Bidyakaran Yojana and Rashtriya Krishi Sinchay Yojana are concerned, people of Udalguri have been suffering as there is no office or officers in Udalguri and everything is being controlled or supervised by neighbouring Darang district office from Manganagar. UDJU requested the Government to establish separate offices for these two Government projects at Udalguri.

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

JORHAT, June 12: In order to gain popular mandate in the yet to be announced panchayat poll in the State, former Chief Minister Tarun Gogoi and several senior leaders of Assam Pradesh Congress Committee(APCC) today asked party cadres to highlight the failures of the ruling BJP while implementing schemes which were promised during the political campaigns of the last Assembly election.

Addressing Congress workers at the District Library auditorium here today, Gogoi said, "We will have to raise our voice for the greater interest of the common people," Gogoi said.

He criticised the ruling BJP for spending several crores of public money in the Namami Brahmaputra River Festival instead of repairing national highways, not did they implement developmental schemes for the farmers and the poor section of people.

"According to a recent survey conducted by Gauhati University, the level of popularity of the BJP Government in the State has come down drastically within a year of their functioning. They could woo the voters through various schemes during the Assembly election campaigns, but nothing has been implemented for the benefit of the farmers and the poor sections of people,"

Addressing Congress workers at the District Library auditorium here today, Gogoi said that the BJP-led Government instead of repairing national highways, not did they implement any scheme for the farmers and the poor section of people.

main causes where potholes have caused serious problems for the commuters.

"I request all our colleagues in the Congress party to convey these failures of the BJP Government to every nook and corner of the State. If we remain silent during this period, people will not forgive us. We will have to raise our voice for the greater interest of the common people," Gogoi said.

As the Congress observed Protarona Divas here today, several other Congress leaders, including former Jorhat MLA Rana Goswami, Mariani Mla Rupjyoti Konai, district president of the Congress committee Dip Gogoi, APCC general secretary Rajendra Prasad Singh, Barnali Saikia Bora, former Congress MP Nabu Buragohain and several other leaders attended the meeting.

Speaking on the occasion, former Jorhat MLA Rana Goswami requested all the members and sympathisers of the political party to highlight non-implementation of the popular schemes of the BJP which were published extensively in the newspapers during the previous poll campaign across the State.

"The National Highway-37 connecting Jorhat and Silvassa is in a very deplorable condition. State Committees face serious problems while travelling along the highway. The State Government has not been able to fulfil the basic needs of the people," claimed Goswami.

Govt working towards bank consolidation: Jaitley

NEW DELHI, June 12: The government is "actively working" towards consolidation of banks, said Finance Minister Arun Jaitley today.

The meeting of top bankers with the Finance Minister, where ministry officials and RBI Deputy Governor SS Mundra were present, was called to take stock of lenders' financial position and speedy resolution of bad assets.

"Consolidation of banks was not on the agenda as far as this present meeting is concerned. But I can tell you, we are actively working in that direction," Jaitley told reporters at a question-answer session, post first round of the discussions.

"I can't give you further details because some of these are price-sensitive, but you can take it that there is a movement going on in that direction," he emphasised. The minister hinted that a solution is coming very soon. Public banks are sitting on a mountain of bad loans to the tune of over Rs 6 lakh crore at the end of 2016-17.

A top ministry official said there is no option but to resolve the NPAs as far as the sectoral source is concerned.

Rules have been framed for the six large sectors and tasks force have been on the job.

"We worked out four final institutional ways in which banks can actually put their points across to the task force to the specific sector and telecommunication is one of them. In each of the sectors, there is no option but to resolve as you go along," the official stressed.

Earlier, Jaitley took stock of the finances of public sector banks as also the resolution of bad loans or NPAs, with heads of the lenders. — Agencies

Besides NPA resolution and bank finances, the meeting also discussed the government's financial inclusion schemes like Mudra Yojana, Stand Up India and cyber security.

The Finance Minister observed that there are challenges to credit growth and speedy resolution for all pending NPA cases is the need of the hour.

On farm loan waiver announced by the Maharashtra government, he made it clear that the States which want to go in for waiver will have to generate funds from their own resources. — Agencies

India needs free, responsible media: VP

BENGALURU, June 12: Amid a debate on freedom of the public at large.

By the same token, the State should not impede the free flow of information that will go a long way in protecting and promoting citizens' rights, he said.

The comments by Ansari come against the backdrop of the recent raids by the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) on the premises of NDTV company.

The NDTV described the raids as "a blatant political attack on the freedom of the press," a charge rejected by the CBI which said it was carried out following court orders. The CBI also said it "respects the freedom of press."

Ansari said a free media is not only beneficial but necessary in a free society and any attack on press freedom would result in jeopardising of citizen's rights.

When faced with unjust restrictions and the threat of attack, self-censorship in the media could have the opposite effect, aiding the covering up of abuses and fostering frustration in marginalised communities, he said.

Ansari said in this age of "post-truths" and "alternative facts," where "advertorials" and "response features" edge out editorials, "we would do well to recall Nehru's vision of the press playing its role of watchdog in democracy and look at the ethos and principles that powered his journalism." - PTI

'Distributing' data?

70 per cent smartphone apps share your data with third-party services, says a new study

More than 70 per cent of smartphone apps are reporting personal data to third-party tracking companies like Google Analytics, the Facebook Graph API or Crashlytics, warns a new study.

When people install a new Android or iOS app, it asks the user's permission before accessing personal information. Some of the information these apps are collecting are necessary for them to work properly. A map app wouldn't be nearly as useful if it couldn't use GPS data to get a location.

But once an app has permission to collect that information, it can share your data with anyone the app's developer wants to — letting other companies track where you are, how fast you are moving and what you are doing.

To get a picture of what data are being collected and transmitted from people's smartphones, the researchers from IMDEA Networks Institute in Spain developed a free Android app of their own, called the Lumen Privacy Monitor.

It analyses the traffic apps send out, to report which applications and online services actively harvest personal data.

Because Lumen is about transparency, a phone can see the information installed apps collect in real time and with whom they share these data.

"We try to show the details of apps' hidden behaviour in an easy-to-understand way. It's about research, too, so we ask users if they'll allow us to collect some data about what Lumen observes their apps are doing — but that doesn't include any personal or privacy-sensitive data," the researchers said in a statement released by the institute.

This unique access to data allowed the researchers to study how mobile apps collect users' personal data and with whom they share data in unprecedented scale.

More than 1,600 people who have used Lumen since October 2015 allowed the researchers to analyse more than 5,000 apps.

"We discovered 598 internet sites likely to be tracking users for advertising purposes, including social media services like Facebook, large internet companies like Google and Yahoo, and online marketing companies under the umbrella of internet service providers like Verizon Wireless," the study said.

More than 70 per cent of the apps were connected to at least one tracker, and 15 per cent of them were connected to five or more trackers, the findings showed.

"Tracking users on their mobile devices is just a larger problem. More than half of the app-trackers we identified also track users through websites. Thanks to this technique, called 'cross-device' tracking, these services can build a much more complete profile of your online persona," the researchers said. — IANS

May unveils 'talented' new Cabinet

Patel holds on to Cabinet post

LONDON, June 11: Theresa May today appointed her closely ally Damián Green as her first secretary of state while Priti Patel remained the senior-most Indian-origin Cabinet minister as the embattled British premier unveiled her new Cabinet after shock election results forced her to form a minority government.

Patel holds on to her position as the senior-most Indian-origin Cabinet minister and will remain in charge as the secretary of state for international development in the new government, which May said will focus on delivering a successful Brexit.

The Prime Minister said the new line-up brought in "talent from across the whole of the Conservative party".

Her statement came after Michael Gove, one of the driving forces behind Brexit who had been relegated to the back benches after he voted for Tory leadership against May last July, returned to the front bench as Environment Secretary and one of May's close allies Green takes charge as First Secretary of State, effectively her Deputy Prime Minister.

"Crucially I've brought in talent from across the whole of the Conservative party. We want a country that works for everyone," she said in Downing Street. The Prime Minister had already confirmed on Friday, soon after the general election, Fallon in charge of the ministry of defence. — PTI

Wales gain point at Serbia; Spain, Italy notch up easy wins

PARIS, June 12: Aaron Ramsey's penalty ensured Wales a precious 1-1 draw in Serbia in World Cup qualifying on Sunday as they kept their hopes of a place at the finals in Russia alive.

Chris Coleman's side were missing star man Gareth Bale due to suspension in Belgrade but Arsenal midfielder Ramsey inspired the visitors into a half-time lead when he floated in a 35th-minute penalty, sending goalkeeper Vladimir Stojkovic the wrong way.

Ramsey had helped win the penalty by forcing Stojkovic into a foul just outside the box as the goalkeeper tried to shepherd the ball behind for a goal-kick – from Joe Ledley's resulting delivery, Sam Vokes was fouled as he tried to head the ball.

However, substitute Aleksandar Prijovic set up Aleksandar Mitrovic to fire past Wales' goalkeeper Wayne Hennessey and equalise in the 73rd minute as Serbia stayed top of qualifying Group D. "It was a great point. They huffed and puffed a little bit but it wasn't like they were peering Wayne Hennessey," Coleman told Sky Sports.

"You expect a tough game here. Everything I asked of the players they did it. That's the type of togetherness these boys have got."

Wales are still unbeaten in the group but this was a fifth straight draw and they are third, four points behind both Serbia and the Republic of Ireland, and level on points with Austria in fourth.

Only the group winners qualify automatically for next year's finals, with the eight best runners-up in the nine groups going into play-offs for the last four spots.

Ireland came from behind to draw 1-1 with Austria earlier with Stoke City striker Jon Walters volleying in the equaliser with five minutes left in Dublin.

Spain's David Silva celebrates after scoring against Macedonia during the 2018 World Cup Qualifying European Zone Group G match at the Philip II Arena in Skopje, on Sunday.

That goal cancelled out Martin Hinteregger's first-half opener and allowed the Irish to maintain their unbeaten record in qualifying.

It could have been better for Martin O'Neill's side, but there was controversy in the 87th minute as the hosts thought they had won it.

Austrian substitute Florian Grillitsch sliced a corner into the area inside his own six-yard box and Stefan Lainer helped the ball into his own net under pressure from Shane Duffy on the line.

However, Spanish referee David Fernandez Borbalan disallowed the effort, apparently penalising Duffy for leading with his arm.

"There's nothing wrong with it at all – he's called a foul on Shane Duffy and I can't see it," said O'Neill.

Ireland are next in action on September 2, when they go to Georgia, who drew 2-2 in Moldova. Those two sides are well adrift at the bottom of the section.

Spain remain level on points with Italy at the top of Group G after grinding out a 2-1 victory away to Macedonia, with Chelsea's Diego Costa scoring what proved to be the winner.

The visitors took a 15-minute lead as David Silva netted after being brilliantly set up by a combination of Andres Iniesta and Jordi Alba.

Costa then lapped in after good play from Isco to make it 2-0 before the half-hour mark, with Stefan Ristovski's superb strike pulling one back for the hosts.

Italy kept up with the 2010 World Cup winners as they cruised to a 5-0 win over Liechtenstein in Udine.

Lorenzo Insigne, Andrea Belotti, Eder, Federico Bernardeschi and Manolo Gabbiadini were all on target for Italy, who go to Spain next in September.

These two should end up well clear of the rest, especially after Israel lost 3-0 at home to Albania.

In Group I, just two points separate the top four sides after leaders Croatia lost 1-0 in Iceland, with Horvat Magunsson scoring a last-minute winner for the Euro 2016 quarterfinalists.

Also in contention are Turkey, who won 4-1 against Kosovo and Ukraine, who were 2-1 winners in Finland. Dynamo Kiev's Artem Besedin got the winner in Tamper after Yevhen Konoplyanka's opener had been cancelled out by Joel Poljanpalo. – Agencies

Retiring Bolt the 'Ali of Athletics': Coe

KINGSTON (Jamaica), June 12: World athletics chief Sebastian Coe says Usain Bolt will retire as the Muhammad Ali of track and field, handing up his spikes as the greatest sprinter of all time.

Coe was at Kingston's National Stadium on Saturday to watch Bolt run his last race on Jamaican soil before he retires at the World Championships in London.

In an interview with AFP yesterday, International Association of Athletics Federations chief Coe said he had been determined to pay homage to Bolt as his glittering career begins its victory lap.

"Just instinctively you knew it was going to be a big moment," Coe said.

"This is where his home is. I sense people here recognised that there was going to be an outpouring of emotion and warmth last night which I just wanted to witness."

Bolt duly delivered a 100m victory in 10.03 seconds for a sea of 30,000 fans decked in yellow and green.

Coe said Bolt will retire from the sport as the greatest sprinter of all time, a rare athlete who transcended his sport and appealed across the sporting spectrum after dominating at three consecutive Olympic games.

"He has not just reached the level he has in terms of global presence because of three back-to-back Olympic Games or because of the world records.

"He has a charisma that I haven't seen in my sport in my lifetime other than with Ali and I put them in the same category," said Coe. – AFP

Nadal up, Djokovic down in ATP charts

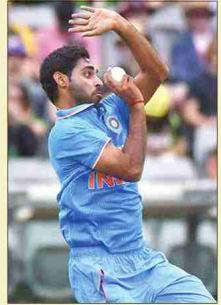

PARIS, June 12: Rafael Nadal's magnificent run to a 10th French Open title has earned the Spaniard a move into second in the latest ATP world rankings published today.

The 31-year-old clinched his record-breaking Roland Garros crown by demolishing Stan Wawrinka in a one-sided final for a 15th Grand Slam crown on Sunday.

Nadal, who had slipped to as low as 10th in the world in 2015, triumphed 6-2, 6-3, 6-1 to become the first man in history to win the same major 10 times.

Nadal's two-place jump was at the expense of Novak Djokovic, whose French Open quarterfinal exit saw the Serb

Had to alter length as white ball is not swinging: Bhuvneshwar

LONDON, June 12: It is inexplicable when a ball refuses to offer swing for seamers in English conditions and Bhuvneshwar Kumar has altered his strategy after failing to understand why this is happening during the ongoing ICC Champions Trophy here.

Bhuvneshwar has bowled 223 overs across three games taking four wickets for 100 runs at a average of 4.44, given the field restrictions in Powerplay are loaded heavily in favour of batsmen.

"It's very difficult to point out why the ball is not swinging in England. The wickets are not generally this hard in England during this time of the year. During the Champions Trophy in 2013 and the next year during Test series, wickets were soft."

"Not very soft that batsmen would encounter problems but soft enough for some decent swing," Bhuvneshwar said mediapersons at the press conference zone after the semifinals.

India's leading seamer is, however, baffled and failed to pinpoint whether it is the quality of white kookaburra to be blamed.

"I don't know whether that's the reason or something to do with the quality of the balls, but everyone is watching that it's difficult for the bowlers to get swing."

Swing bowlers normally have to pitch it up in order to either move the ball away or into the batsman but Bhuvneshwar decided to hold the length back a little in order to stifle runs. – PTI

Jitu-Heena pair wins gold in ISSF World Cup

GABALA (Azerbaijan), June 12: India's Jitu Rai and Heena Sidhu combined to clinch the gold medal in mixed team 10m air pistol event of the ISSF World Cup, beating Russia 7-6 in the final here today.

France beat Iran by an identical score to win the bronze in the event.

Earlier, on day four of the competitions at the rifle/pistol World Cup, both Jitu and Heena narrowly missed out on making the final of the individual men's and women's 10m air pistol event, finishing 12th and 9th in their respective qualification rounds.

Only the top eight make it through to the final.

Although the mixed team events are not being considered for the medal tally at the World Cup stage this year, they have been approved as medal events for the Tokyo 2020 Olympics.

The win augurs well for the Indian pair as this was their second World Cup gold together, having won the event in the New Delhi stage earlier this year.

China has been leading the medal tally at Gabala with six medals, including three gold.

430 shooters from 45 countries are competing for medals in the ongoing World Cup, which is the last chance for rifle and pistol shooters to qualify for the ISSF World Cup Finals.

The event will see the eight best shooters of the world compete in each Olympic discipline along with reigning Olympic and World Championship medallists and wild-cards. – PTI

Anand draws with Wesley So

STAVANGER (Norway)

June 12: Former world champion Viswanathan Anand's hunt for an elusive victory continued as he played out a draw with American Wesley So in the fifth round of the Alichan Norway chess tournament, here today.

Anand took his tally to 1.5 points out of a possible five and remained on the last spot in the 10-player tournament being played on round-robin basis.

The Indian ace will have to pull his socks if he has to make an impact in the remaining four rounds of this tournament.

life was back to normalcy in Norway as all the five games ended in draws leaving no changes in the overnight standings.

Having lost to Levon Aronian of Armenia, Magnus Carlsen was visibly upset as he had to fight a slightly worse position before drawing with Anish Giri of Holland.

Vladimir Kramnik of Russia had some advantage against Hikaru Nakamura of the United States while Maxime Vachier-Lagrange of France signed peace with Aronian. In the other game of the day, Fabiano Caruana and Wesley So were on 2.5 points, a half point ahead of Vachier and Kramnik. – PTI

Hamilton wins as Mercedes reel off one-two finish

Montreal, June 12: Lewis Hamilton celebrated winning the race on the podium with the Canadian Grand Prix trophy in Montreal, on Sunday.

MONTREAL, June 12: Lewis Hamilton revisited his bid for a fourth driver's world title when he cruised to victory in the Canadian Grand Prix ahead of his Mercedes teammate Valtteri Bottas.

It was the three-time champion's sixth victory at the Circuit Gilles Villeneuve – where he claimed his maiden triumph in 2007 – as well as his third this season and the 56th of his career.

Hamilton yesterday took full advantage of his 65th pole position and led from lights to flag to finish 15 seconds clear of Finn Bottas who, in turn, was 15 seconds ahead of third-placed Australian Daniel Ricciardo of Red Bull.

"A big thank you to this crowd," said Hamilton from the podium where the actor Patrick Stewart served as interviewer. "Every year the energy grows! I had my first pole here and my first win here and to repeat it is incredibly special."

"It was a great team performance and Valtteri did a great job. I am just over the moon."

It was the Mercedes team's first two-finish of the year and clear proof of their recovery after a disappointing weekend at last month's Monaco Grand Prix.

Bottas said: "As a team we really needed this one-to-two to get the points and I am very proud of this team and what they have done since Monaco... I knew what I had to do today."

Hamilton's win clinched championship leader and four-time champion Sebastian Vettel's advantage to 12 points after the Ferrari man lost out at the start and, after an early pit stop for repairs, fought back to finish fourth.

Vettel's front wing was damaged when he was passed by Max Verstappen of Red Bull at the start, the Dutchman running in a strong second place until he retired with electrical problems after 11 laps.

Mexican Sergio Perez finished fifth after a bruising battle with his Force India teammate Esteban Ocon of France, who was sixth. Finni Kimi Raikkonen finished seventh in the second Ferrari ahead of German Nico Huelkenberg of Renault, with local hero and teenage rookie Lance Stroll of Canada taking ninth for Williams and Frenchman Romain Grosjean 10th for Haas.

The race delivered immediate drama.

Hamilton led cleanly off the grid, as behind him, Verstappen attacked and swept around the outside into Turn One to take second place from Vettel, apparently clipping the front wing of the Ferrari in the process.

Behind them, Sainz collided with Frenchman Romain Grosjean's Haas and then spun and crashed into the barriers, collecting Brazilian Felipe Massa's Williams along the way.

Both drivers were uninjured, but they were forced to retire as safety car was deployed for three laps as the debris was cleared.

Hamilton made the most of the restart and resisted another Verstappen attack before Vettel, his front wing clearly damaged, pitted for repairs. – AFP
